

I thought long and hard before including this piece.

It is NOT humorous or entertaining.

It is shocking, disturbing and voyeuristic.

BE WARNED.

AT A BEACH IN PATAGONIA, ARGENTINA

Read this before you watch.

Turn up your sound. Time: Only 23 seconds.

This guy was walking into the water, not even ankle deep yet, and two killer whales just snatched him.

No blood. No guts. No mess. Just GONE!!

He happened to be waving at a friend who was taking a video of him, but it became his last wave EVER!

Just suppose that his friend had not been filming at that moment, or had not been looking in that direction.

The young man was totally gone in just a matter of a few seconds.

Except for this incredible video, he would have been gone without even a trace, never to be found by family or friends.

His first clue should have been the seal pup that was coming to shore.

This is a classic case of a person being in the wrong place at the wrong time.

KillerWhale.wmv